II. Catalog Description

Prerequisites: Introduction to Psychology (PSYC 103) or Introduction to Social Work & Social Welfare (HMNS 102)

The course will examine individual, group, organizational and societal theories of human development and behavior across the lifespan. Students will use the theoretical paradigms presented to examine individual and social issues arising in social work practice to identify potential interventions and remedies to improve individual and societal circumstances. Fifteen hours of service learning are required as the context for applying classroom learning to real life situations, culminating with a bio-psycho-social assessment and plan of intervention in the form of a case study assignment.

III. Statement of Course Need

- A. This course serves as a core requirement for students enrolled in human service majors and certificate programs. The course is a mandated course across all social work programs accredited by the Council for Social Work Education (CSWE). More broadly, it also addresses NJ General Education goal 5: "Students will be able to use social science theories and concepts to analyze human behaviors and the social and political institutions and to act as responsible citizens."
- B. There is no lab component in this course aside from the service learning requirement which facilitates real life application of theory to practice.
- C. Transferability of course:
  - 1. This course transfers as a program requirement into some accredited BASW programs.
  - 2. This course generally transfers as a social work program elective.

IV. Place of Course in College Curriculum

- A. Free Elective
- B. This course meets a program requirement for the Certificate in Chemical Dependency, Certificate of Completion and Certificate in Human Services, and the Human Services/Pre-Social Work, A.S. degree.
- C. To see course transferability: a) for New Jersey schools, go to the NJ Transfer website, www.njtransfer.org; b) for all other colleges and universities, go to the individual websites.
